EXPLANATORY NOTE

Specialty Law is an important one in a contemporary society. A qualified and competent specialist in jurisprudence can be placed in any sphere of harmonious social life both nationally and internationally.

As a specialty aim is to achieve an effective field training, creating prerequisites for socio-secure successful professional people specialized in law in the legal system of the Republic of Moldova and the possibility of professional advancement abroad.

In this context, Law specialty aims to achieve its goals through:

1. Formation of the graduate professional skills based on theoretical and practical training in law.
2. Formation of research abilities in the field of jurisprudence based on scientific composition. In this sense specialist training aims to investigate contradictions in jurisprudence.
3. Ensure the future of multilateral developed specialist, training civic position and the ethical dimension of personality.

Applying for Bachelor specialty Law (Cycle I) can be based on High School/Lyceum (BAC) diploma or university diploma.

The specialist in jurisprudence (law degree) can carry on his professional activity in different fields - civil, criminal, financial, banking, criminology, psychology, legislation, human rights protection, etc., taking into account specialty nominated.

An efficient achievement of all mentioned objectives assures the graduate successful socio-professional integration. Lawyers can operate as judges, prosecutors, advocates, employee in different government structures, especially the Ministry of Justice, Ministry of Interior, legal departments and sections of the central and local public administration authorities, institutions, organizations, public and private enterprises, as judge in the Constitutional Court, Ombudsman, institutions with judicial expertise; NGOs sorting and dispute mediation; organizations defending human rights; embassies abroad; international government and regional organizations, as well as any other areas that require protection, surveillance of rights, freedoms and interests or values protected by law.

Upon completion of university studies (cycle) student shall have the following general skills:

1. The ability to learn independently;
2. Ability to meet and develop values and professional ethics;
3. Ability to exercise his profession as a member of a team;
4. Ability to solve problem situations;
5. The ability to make decisions independently;
6. Possess sufficient knowledge of the foreign language to be able to work effectively in the legal field;
7. The ability to use information technologies in research and legal practice.

Professional skills:

1. Knowledge of Moldovan legislation, European legislation and other international legal instruments;
2. Knowledge of the concepts, theories, paradigms and methodologies in the legal field;
3. Use knowledge needed in data collection and information relating to a specific practical issue in law;
4. Using specific methods applied in law;
5. Application of techniques and specific legal instruments in solving practical problems;
6. Using a variety of techniques, methods and solutions to interpretative enunciation of acts;
7. Initiate and detection as proposed for solving problems in the legal activity.

The most effective way to train professional skills is the PBL (problem-based learning) strategy, which is done through projects. The application of group projects contributes to the creation of favorable conditions for the formation of general skills, which are transversal. The work in a small group shapes the system of attitudes, values and behavior of the person, prepares him for professional activity in a real work team.

Vocational training through projects is a good strategy under the conditions of the 21st century as it favors the formation of professional skills and is not just about the accumulation of knowledge. The PBL strategy teaches the future specialist to identify a problem, to study the work of the professional environment, to propose solutions and to implement them in practice.

Through the PBL strategy, the student becomes an active subject of his own training process. The PBL strategy is an effective way of training in the current context of higher education, with an emphasis on work outside the classroom oriented towards the needs of the labor market and the employer.
